How the Prep. System Works

What is English Proficiency Exam (EPE) ?

- EPE (English Proficiency Exam) is the language achievement test that all the students studying at the English preparatory program take at the end of the year.
- It constitutes 40 % of the General Average at the end of the year.

Is there any compensation for EPE?

Students who fail to attend the EPE have to bring a doctor's report from full-fledged hospital and hand it in to the secretary of SFL.

How the Prep. System Works

What happens after EPE?

The passing score is calculated accordingly:

- Students get the 15% from each Track (1, 2, 3, and 4).
- Mean scores of 4 Tracks are calculated out of 60%.
- The EPE score is calculated out of 40%.
- In order to complete the English Preparatory Program, 60% of the mean scores of 4 Tracks and 40% of the score of EPE must be 70 points and above.

What happens to students who fail to pass the preparation school?

Students who fail to pass can follow the procedures specified in the instructions of the School of Foreign Languages. For further details, please visit:
